

The Linacre School of Defence

Studying the historical British martial arts of smallsword, backsword and pugilism.

Home > Library > Fewtrell

Fewtrell's Science of Manual Defence

<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/2.0/>

Boxing Reviewed; or, the Science of Manual Defence, displayed on rational principles. Comprehending a complete description of the principle pugilists, from the earliest period of Broughton's time, to the present Day.

Author: Thomas Fewtrell Published: 1790

Use of this work is freely granted subject to the conditions of this Creative Commons Licence http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/2.0/.

These images are scans of a text in the library of Trinity College, Oxford, and "the president and fellows of Trinity College, Oxford" must be given credit when these images are used.

Format: jpeg images.

View online <Fewtrell.php>

Download: 52 images, zip archive (6.49 MB) <fewtrell.zip>

Science of Manual Defence, BOXING REVIEWED; RATIONAL PRINCIPLES. A COMPLETE DESCRIPTION COMPREHENDING DISPLAYED ON OR, THE OF THE

From the carlieft Period of BROUGHTON's Time, PRINCIPAL PUGILISTS, to the prefent Day.

By THOMAS FEWTRELL.

Printed for SCATCHERD and WHITAKER, Ave-Maria-Lane; FAULDER, New Bond Street; and CHAMPANTE and WHITROW, Aldgate, LONDON

Price Two SHILLINGS and SIMPENCE. M.DCC.XC.

[Entered at Stationer's Hall.]

fence;

T HE permiffion your Lordfhip has given me of dedicating to you the following pages, is the moft pleafing circumftance of my life; and it is my higheft ambition, that they may prove worthy your Lordfhip's perufal. Pugilifm has had many advocates, but it has been feldom vindicated on the principles of reafon. To refcue it from the malevolence of the unmanly, and effablifh it as a fcience of equal merit with any other exercife of defence, is the profeffed object of my book; and where could I find a patron equal to your Lordhip, whether I confider your knowledge of the theory, or your fkill in the practice.

The EARL of BARRYMORE.

RIGHT HONOURABLE

TO THE DUE TO

[4]

Your Lordhip's condefcention in fuffering your name to grace my literary efforts, has my warmelt thanks; and the fincereft gratitude for fo great a favour fhall always animate my bofom.

I am, My LORD, With the moft profound Refpect, Your Lordfhip's moft humble, And moft devoted Servant, THO⁸. FEWTRELL.

ADVERTISEMENT.

MANY are defirous to learn my motives can truly declare, that the vanity of being ion. It is perhaps thought, that profit is for publithing the following pages. I effectned an author was not of the number, for that I knew would be more prejudicial than ufeful to one in my line of life, fince mankind efteem a pugilift in proportion to his ignorance, and think that the more favage and unenlightened he is, the better wirded with money. I fincerely with fuch my expectations of that nature are triffing. Authorfhip malified he muft be to excel in his profefmy object, and that my labour is to be rethoughts may be realized ; but unluckily, my packet. I therefore advife thole who are with me, whole talents can have no claim to not authors to fupprefs any vain idea of beit, and I know feveral men of genius who finement, both in mind and body; a flate which, I fear, would foon take place even coming fo; thofe who are, will I am confident, when able, fhake off a name fo ex-Authorship rarely brings emolument with fludy fo much, and cat fo little, that they may be literally faid to live in a flate of reit, were I to throw afide the Sparring Gloves, have already liad fo much to do with my head, that I have lefs than ever to do with and continue to hold the pen; for I find I prefive of their mifery. This Volume was written for the purpole of vindicating Pugilifm from the unjuftifiable cenfures of illiterate and weak minds, and proving its utility on rational principles. If I have in any degree fucceeded.

[[vi]]

ceeded, I thall finile at the opinion of fome, who, in the zeal of their fine-fpun delicacy, may declare my fubject and language more calculated for Hottentats than Englishmen. Upon fach men argument will have no effect, to fach I do not addrefs myfelf. Let the manly, the unprejudiced be my judges and not fear a favorable decifion. If a book on Boxing be abfurd, fo mult one on Fencing, fo mult one on Dancing; and yet feveral ufeful and entertaining treatifes have been printed on thefe fubjects. Some one will perhaps object, that this is written by a Boxer; but upon this principle the fame fagacious critic might condemn the author of any publication for undertaking that to which he is adequate by experience, and would, by the inverted laws of reafon, expect a collection of fermons from a general, or a treatife on tactics from a bithop.

[vii

[min]

[ix

a bithop. Without fear or intereft I have nion refpecting Pugilifin. I have acted in the following work published my opifrom conviction, and I am fatisfied-

Fiat justino, ruat calum.

•

ŝ E Z E E Z 0 0

SECTION I.

puglisin condemned without reason-the fair lex should Page I. nst oppose it - a state of bostility impossible to be avoided -Bearing the most natural and least daugerous way of sections diffuters, therefore preferable to all others.

SECTION II.

p. 8. The firmce floored not be confirred on account of the private anduct of fome of its profellors-pitched battles generally condemned-Puglifyn of public utility.

SECTION III.

P. 13. The principles foould be fuft acquired, and the minutice will fallow of courfs-Sparring necessary to form a Bixer-Sparring Bould be exercised on the Same rules with fighting.

SECTION IV.

p. 17. The requifites to form a complete Boxer.

SEC.

CONTENTS.

xi -

-

SECTION XI.

p. 56. 1 Corporatis, Sellery, and Death defcribed.

SECTION XII.

proper knowneeds of the different kinds of plowu-the Chopper ment-of the different kinds of plowu-the Chopper impartially confidered-the most dangerous parts of the p. 22.

A proper knowledge of Briking flould be the first autim.

SECTION V.

×]

p. 61. Tyme, Walfon, Let, Martin, Doyle, Crabb, Janes, the Brewer, Jackfon, Dunn, Wood, Novelan, Mendova, Humpbreys, the elder and younger Towars, Hosper, Valuation, Parrines, Ryan, Big Ben, Tring, Ward, George "annes, and Anderfon defcribed.

SECTION XIII.

p. 27.

The Guards of Humphreys, Mendoza, and Johnfon de.

SECTION VI.

foribed-a polition once adopted frould be adhered to.

The arms flould not be craffed, nor drawn back to firiki-

SECTION VII.

the motion of the arms-Clofing-doubts about Barring.

p. 32.

p. 85. 4 Parallel between Broughton and Johnfon

p. 47. Three diffind periods to be confidered-Broughton, Slads and Hunt defcribed. -

1 SECTION IX. 4 gullers.

Some principal objections anfwered-Boxing ufeful to Tra-

SECTION VIII.

P. 37.

. Prografs of Baxing-the encouragement given to it in Broughton's time-of its decline, revival, and profest

p. 42+ 1 flate.

SECTION X.

SEC

BOXING REVIEWED.

SECTION I.

Pugilifun condemned without reafon-the fair fex frould not oppofe it—a flate of hoftility impofible to be avoided—Boxing the moft natural and leaft dangerous way of deciding diputes, therefore preferable to all others. T muft appear ftrange, that any particular exercife fhould be condemned without an impartial difcuffion of its merits; fuch, however, I venture to affert, has been the cafe with Boxing. Prejudice has been chieffy inflrumental in its condemnation. Petits maitres, whofe frames are not formed for their own defence, or the annoyance of others combine againft its fuccefs, and the pufilla-B ninous, nimous, with bodies that give every indication of manhood, but whole hearts ficken at the approach of a blow, unite againft its popularity.

The fcience has alfo its enemies, and perhaps of a more formidable nature, in the chievements, were women. Lefs ancient glifhmen, for who can doubt the truth of Joan D'Arc, the Maid of Orleans? Have WC -" To play with mammets, and to tilt with lips," is their motto. Yet I do not defpair of finding advocates among the ladies. Minerva prefided over war, and, if we credit do not bring a folitary inflance in my favour, I will call a whole nation to my aid; the Amazons, renowned for warlike attimes have produced a maiden, whofe arm has thinned the ranks of the braveft Ena hiftory, fo well authenticated as that of fair fex; for what has love to do with war? the poets, kept even Mars in awe. But I

Boxing Reviewed.

we not feen in our own time a Madame D'Eon invefted with military command? And is there not at this moment a lady, who has rid her own matches at Newmarket, and drives a tennis-ball with a dexterity and vigor that would do honor to the moft fkilful and brawny arm in the kingdom? Since, therefore, prowefs and female nature are not incompatible, it is expected, that if the ladies do not become the friends of Boxing, they will not declare themfelves its enemies, a neutrality is only defired, and this fhould be deemed a modeft expectation, fince " None but the brave deferve the for."

Let us candidly examine upon what grounds Boxing thould be encouraged, and impartially frate the objections, which are daily advanced againft it.—No man can fay, that any practice of hoftility fhould be encouraged, for peace is preferable to war. B 2 Nature and evil must absolutely happen, it is better, a greater thould give way to a lefs. And upon this principle Boxing is preferable to every other kind of fighting, for it is more natural. this manner. . Since we can not at all times avoid a flate of hoffility, our great object is to make it as little injurious to fociety as poffible. Morality tells us, that fince an Nature delights in friendly intercourfe, and but fuch is the frailty of mankind, that it will quarrel as well as nations, and where tants. The inquiry of courfe takes place, gerous way of terminating contentions in warfare muft impair the bleffings of foci. ety. Upon this principle every kind of individuals, from innumerable motives, the law either cannot give redrefs, or is by mutual confent laid afide, the decifion is which is the moft natural and the leaft danis abfurd to look for perfection in any flate, made by the ftrength and fkill of the difpuattack and defence thould be abolithed, and productive of lefs mifchief. It would be ufclefs to enter into a laboured proof, that it is more natural, for the form of man fulficiently demonftrates it.

Bexing Reviewed.

and perilous than pugilifin. The hands cafed the combatants, and each blow muft have of antiquity. But this was infinitely more in iron muft have mangled the bodies of produced the moft defperate confequences; yet it was encouraged by the wifest nations, able to contend with them. What was the Celtus, fo much celebrated in the Greek and Roman hiftorians and poets, but a fpecies of Boxing? Pollux is reported to have been its founder, and was one of the heroes in an ifland, that had never been vifited by Europeans, and fo very expert were the natives in parrying and returning blows, that the beft pugilift in the veffel was unbut a fhort time fince, found it chablifhed One of our moft celebrated difcoverers, and the victor, may the vanquifhed too, was rewarded with honors and riches. Have not tilts and tournaments, at a period not very remote from our days, been the fathion in England, as well as throughout all Europe? Yet the perils attending the exercife of them were, beyond comparifon, greater than any now incurred in Boxing. The fword and piftol have their professes and patrons; but the michiefs resulting from the ufe of them are never mentioned, while, on the contrary, if a melancholy accident takes place in puglism, it is magnified into a tremendous evil, which requires the interference of the legiflature. Every exertion, whether hoftile or harmlefs in its purfuit, fubjects us to danger; it would be abfurd to ufe the accidents that have already happened and may hereafter happen in puglism, as an argument againft the practice of it, fince all manner of activity should upon

Baxing Reviewed.

upon the fame principle be difcontinued, and indolence would be then effeemed a corporal virtue. The friends of Boxing are not fo ridiculous as to declare, that the fcience is free from peril, they only contend, that it is more fo than any other mode of terminating contefts. No man, however martial in his difpofition, can be an advocate for fighting, but fince diffentions, from the frailty of mankind, cannot be avoided, and that the law can not in all difputes be appealed to, it muft be admitted, that pugilifm, by the rules of morality and nature, is preferable to all other modes of violent decifion. SECTION

SECTION II.

The feience fould not be cenfured on account of the private conduct of fome of its profellors-pitched battles generally condomned -Puglifin of public utility.

which propriety of their private manners, fubject themfelves to reproof. We might with equal right centure our holy religion, becaufe fome few of its minifters may not be bleffed with that regularity of conduct, bility, fome for their integrity, while others renounce all pretentions to both. But it is unjuft, that a science should be condemn-T Cannot pronounce a very high panegyric on the politenels and accomplithments bers of all professions and focieties, they differ from each other in principle and behaviour; fome are remarkable for their affaed, becaufe the professions of it, by the imof the prefent pugilifts. Like the mem-

Boxing Reviewed.

the courage of the lion and the meeknefs of has, in my prefence, calmly fubmitted to the he confidered in an abftracted flate from the lamb united in the fame perfon, and a man able to chaftife the infolcnce of a giant which thould diffinguish an orthodox dithe mifconduct of its teachers, and their errors will be no longer made an objection 10 its inflitution. Yet this much I venture to affert, and I fpeak from my knowledge of ficts, that there are among them men, whole heads and hearts would qualify them for any fituation in life; nor are they devoid of the milder qualitities of humanity. I have feen vine. I truft therefore, that boxing will petulance of a pigmy.

a juft one. Though I am an advocate for Boxing, I am not the champion of its abufes, nor will I fuffer my pen, like mo-PITCHED BATTLES form a great objection to Pugilifun, and, it muft be allowed, dern counfellors, to be bribed in the dewith Two fence of a corrupt caufe. Whether we confider pitched battles in a public or a private view, they are equally reprehentible; and first in a public view: No man is the the mafter of his own life, it is the property of the common-wealth, and fhould not be be loft in the combat. This, it muft be confeficil, is rarely the cafe; yet, the bare is alone fufficient to defroy the practice of pitched battles. The confideration of them men free from enmity are matched in fight, having mutually given the moft known marks of good will, they affault each other Every kind of perfonal conteft expofes us to danger, and though Boxing is attended with lefs peril than Duelling, yet lives may poffibility of fo melancholy an event without any caufe for paffion, without any motive for vengeance, nay immediately after hazarded by the whim of an individual. in a private view is equally flrong.

dern

OI

Boxing Reviewed.

II

with all the appearance of deadly hatred, and determined revenge. The ties of humanity are broken, and Nature revolts at the fight. The inhabitants of every country have reflection, which muft be ever pleafing to an independent mind. No fize, no weight of body will make any courageous their peculiarities, and thefe peculiarities are maney a martial spirit, which improves in hood. Man is taught to look his equale, Though he is not inclined to attack others, perfon, fkilled in pugilifin, fubmit to bafe indignities. From a conviction, that the aften of public utility. Boxing thus conlidered is of great fervice, it infpires even in our boyifh days, and is matured in mannay his fuperiors, boldly in the face. he knows he is able to defend himfelf, a feience is univerfally underftood, the flrong are taught humility, and the weak confidence

Boxing Reviewed.

12

dence. Many have laughed at the id_{ed} , that Boxing is of national fervice, but they have laughed at the expence of truth. An exercife that diffuces courage throughout any nation, but more particularly England, a country from its politics and commerce fo liable to war, muft be of public utility. It is principally on this account that the legillature, always attentive to the intereft of the people, has never interfered on the fub-ject of puglifin. It was thought more prudent to let that pafs unnoticed, which, though occafionally productive of fome pri-vate mitchief, muft ever promote the common good.

SECTION

Boxing Reviewed.

51

SECTION III.

The principles flooted be first acquired, and the minutia will follow of courfe-Sparring neceffary to form a Boxer-Sparring should be exercised on the fame rules with fighting.

ration jable to change, it were prefumptuous to ections. It therefore becomes the duty of a professor modefily to state the most known ules, and to recommend those which he deviation from them, but as the moft likely to facceed. It is ridiculous to notice every little punctilio that occurs in pugilifin, for no hencfit can be derived from the enumepronounce ours free from the fame imperconceives the beft ; not with infolent authority, as if there never fhould be the leaft ples of almoft every fcience have been found TO advance rules in a magificrial manner, and lay them down as infallible. would be truly abfurd. Since the princi-ration of trifles, they follow of courfe as appendages to more confequential mat, ters, and the time of the pupil would be wafted on minutiz, that maturally prefent themfelves, when it fhould be employed in the attainment of the firft principles.

powers Some are of opinion, that Sparring is of no great ufe, and that it takes from the natural of the propriety of his Mafter's leftons, and exercife his reafoning faculties, an advanproper introduction to Boxing, and a juft mode of realizing whatever principles the fcholar may have imbibed, or trying the fucvented. By this method he can alfo judge tage of which he is often deprived in battle. ceffary to form a complete pugilift. It is, I grant, a mock encounter, but at the fame time a reprefentation, and in moft cafes, an exact one of real fighting. It is the only cefs of any new plan, he may have in-Sparring is at this moment abfolutely ne-

Boxing Reviewed.

121

powers of manhood, while it only teaches fulfis, that cannot prove hurtful to a coungeous adverfary. This however is merely revising an opinion maintained by the pupils of the Old School, in which furngh generally prevailed over fkill. Is it not wident, that preparation is neceflary for every exercife; but more particularly for that, in which hoftilities take place? And what is Sparring, but a preparation, and of the neareft affinity to Boxing? The advoentes for this opinion might with equal propriety affert, that fhooting at a mark was of no fervice in forming an expert gunner. I with it to be univerfally underftood, that I recommend the practice of Sparring, as if in real action. No manœuvres, no attitudes ought to be adopted, unlefs experimentally, but what would be introduced in actual fight. Let any one fuppofe a Sparring-cafily habituate himfelf to the exercise of all his powers, and act by the fame rules in the hour of danger. There may be a great difference between Sparring and Fight. ing; for one may be very courageous in play, that is laid down here, fince cowardice is not produced by Sparring; for he muft have been in the fame degree daffardly, if he had never feen it, and perhaps more fo. What is mentioned here only goes to prove, rior to him who does not; as one, who conunless chance interferes, have an advantage Sparring-room the fcene of battle, and exert himfelf upon that principle, he will action. But this want of valor is by no means an argument against the doctrine, that where two perfons poffefs equal courage, ftrength and activity, the man who makes Sparring his practice, muft be fupefiders a thing before its performance, muft, over him, who thinks confideration unnewhofe heart would be intimidated in real

Boxing Reviewed.

LI

SECTION IV.

The requiptes to form a complete Boxer.

IN mentioning the requifites that form a complete Boxer, it is not infinuated, that no perfon can be a good pugilift without them all; one man may poffefs more requifites than many others, and will be therefore fuperior; but he who unites all that is neceflary in himfelf will be victorious, until his equal appears, and then a more eminent degree will give the advantage. Strengtb, art, courage, advinty, the power of bearing blows, a quick eye and wind, are the confituents of a complete Boxer. I have given the firft place in the lift to fltength, not becaufe it is fuperior to art, but becaufe it is impoffible to difplay art in a proper manner without flrength. It C has ceffary.

SECTION

CO I

has been long a queftion, and is even now undently the fuperiority. What battles have has ever been completely juft? And while decided, which merits the preference. From my own experience and the many careful enquiries I have made of the moft intelligent profestors, and the beft feconds, art has evibeen fought particularly fince the prefent fyftem of Boxing has taken place, in which art has not been victorious ? Inftances may rarely occur in the courfe of a multitude of contells to confute me, but what opinion a great majority of cafes appear in my favour, for the truth of which I appeal to the I will maintain, that art is intitled to a prevarious battles that have been lately decided, ference over firength. Courage is as neceffary in a Boxer, as a foldier, and perhaps more fo, for the former is always matched, and has every thing to thread from his opponent, while the latter has has companions to fhate his danger and encourage him in it, and if he ever engages in a fingle combat, fortune only gives him an adverfary; thus, if he has much to fear, he has alfo much to bepe. It is extraordinary, that courage fhould be various in the fame perfon, yet fuch is often the cafe. We have inflances of men fuffering themfelves to be cruelly beaten without giving in, who but a flort time before flurunk from the ordinary trials of manhood. Activity is in our time a greater requifite than it formerly was ; for Shifting, which confitts in the changing of ground, is more practifed. Some have centured Shifting as an unmanly cuttom, but without reafon. If indeed mere brutal force were to decide a combat, it might be deemed improper; but where the mind has a confiderable fhare in the decifion, as is the cafe at prefent, Shifting cannot be thought unmanly. The C 2 fame fame cenfure might be paffed on Fencing, or an accidental rencontre in a field of battle; but, would it not be abfurd to fay to a man, whofe only care is the prefervation of his life—" You muft not avoid your enmy's favord, by changing your ground, you muft not make ufe of that activity of which you are capable, becaufe it is unmanly." The prever of bearing blows, or what is generally called Bottom, quicknefs of eye, and wind, are requifites of great importance, and may be all improved by conftant practice. There are men who feem to be peculiarly formed for bottom. The fevereft blows make little imprefilion on the ribs of fome, and the heads of others. The old fchool furnithes a furprizing inflance of bottom. The noted Buckhorfe made a prachife of ftanding without a guard, and prachife of himfelf to be knocked down by the hardeft hitter, for a trifting fum of moner.

Boxing Reviewed.

191

20

SECTION

Boxing Reviewed.

21

ney. The advantage of a good eye is evident; it is neceffary to differn the approach of a flroke, and perceive the vulnerable parts of an opponent. A refolute look is ufeful in awing the eneny, and often difconcerts the boldeft. The eye fhould never be clofed in the time of action. Wind though naturally good, may be improved by proper exercife, or what is termed *train*by proper exercife, or what is termed *train*ing. It may alfo, if once impaired, be in a ing. It meafure recovered by the fame method, and regularity of living.

01

SECTION V.

A proper knowledge of Striking fould be the first attainment—of the different kinds of Blows—the Chopper impartially confidered —the most dangerous parts of the body. A Proper mode of fluiking flould be the pupil's firth object of knowledge, for a decifive blow may be made by a perfon unacquainted with the other parts of pugilifim, and though a man be well verfed in the guards, he hazards much in parying his adverfary, if he himfelf is ignorant of the principles of flriking, becaufe he knows not the common directions of the arms againft which he is to defend himfelf. Thus, whether we confider flriking in an offenfive or defenfive view, either to affault an adverfary or receive his attack, it is the molt elementary part of Boxing, and fhould be the firth fludied.

Boxing Reviewed.

23

The large knuckles of the hand flould be only ufed, they are rarely difabled, but the knuckles in the middle of the fingers frequently give way. Straight blows are preferable to all others, they are flronger, becaufe they come directly from the centre of the power, and quicker, becaufe they defcribe lefs fpace in the attainment of the object, it therefore follows, that it is more difficult to parry them than any others. Round flriking is now univerfally exploded; it is condemned by the fame reafons which recommend flraight blows, for it is directly contrary to them. It has been of late the cuftom to extol. Clepping, as the beft mode of hitting, it is a blow ftruck on the face with the back of the hand. Mendoza claims the honour of its invention, but unjuftly; he certinly revived and confiderably improved pluould that it can be of no great utility, it partakes of the nature of a round blow, for it is given downwards or fideways, and muft therefore deviate from the centre. It allo expoles the arm to danger 3 every chopper Crabb was thought, next to Mendoza, the moft fuccefsful in the ufe of it, yet he never hit Tyne. Indeed reafon convinces us, it. It was practifed long before our time, Broughton occafionally ufed it, and I am at this inflant acquainted with fome of Slack's pupils, who have affured me, that he flruck the chopper in giving the return fighters, very few. Mendoza's fcholars only adhere to it. Experience proves, that it can be of no great fervice, fince of all the fought, it has not contributed to gain one. In the conteft between Tyne and Crabb, chopping fuffered a fhameful difgrace; chopping arc now, particularly among pitched battles, which have been lately in many of his battles. The advocates for flould take its force from the play of the arm, between the elbow and wrift; but if in the exgernels of action, the elbow fhould be thrown too forward, the fmall of the arm may be broken. Though no friend to dopping, I do not with it fhould be entirely hid afide. It may be happily ufed in giving the return, and fhould a pugilift engage with a perfon ignorant of the fcience, it with a perfon ignorant of the fcience, it with a perfon ignorant of the forence, it with a perfon ignorant of the forence, it with a perfon ignorant of the forence is to two fkilful Boxers meet, no reliance is to be placed on it, and fuch is the opinion of the moft experienced profeifors of the prefent day. A knowledge of the parts of the body molt dangerous to be ftruck is neceffary to every Boxer, but firft it thould be observed, that any blow planted on the waiftband or below it, is unfair, and caufes the lois of a battle. The eyes, the part between the syes, the temples, the nofe, under the left ear, the polition of the firiker, and he by altering his polition will always attain his mark. it is evident, that every blow depends on fally termed the Mark, are the parts liable defcribe the confequences of blows properly a fkilful boxer will fucceed in proportion as that round blows will hit fome parts which ftraight blows cannot, whereas thofe in a car, immediately below the fhort ribs, and to be moft affected. It is not incumbent on me to affume the office of a furgeon, and planted in them ; it is fufficient to fay, that think it neceflary to contradict the opinion, flraight direction will reach any part, for the pit of the flomach, or what is univerhe judicioully makes them his aim.]

The

24

Boxing Reviewed.

2.5

26

SECTION

Boxing Reviewed.

27

SECTION VI.

The Guards of Humpbreys, Mendoza, and Yohnfon deferibed-a polition once adopted pould be adhered to.

covering the ftomach ; the legs confiderably extended ; graceful. Attitudes are as various as men, but may be generally reduced to three. the right hand nearer to the body, the fift accomplished, fince Nature delights in the Thole of Humpbreys, Mendoza, and Johnfon. The firft confifts in placing the left hand WHATEVER rules are laid down in Sparring fhould be followed in Box-They are both confidered by me in cerning the one is applicable to the other. Every fludent fhould endeavour to unite grace with power, and this may be eafily foremoft, the fift opposite to the mouth ; the fame view, and what is mentioned coning.

200

extended, the left foremoft, the weight of the body poifed on the right, and the head other. It is alfo the moft manly; the erect. This polition is the molt graceful I have ever feen, the head, the breaf, the arms, and the legs, are truly picturefque, and combine to improve each breaft expanded, the head boldly raifed, and the limbs firmly planted, express the most martial air. The weight of the body thrown on the hinder leg muft give greater firength to the blow of a perion in this guard than in any other. Some pretend that it is not good for defence; but this opinion proceeds from Mendoza's fuccels in firiking Humphreys fo repeatedly; whereas the fault lay in the man, not in the guard, for Mendoza is a quicker hitter, and his blows would have perhaps equally told, had Humphreys been in the fafeft of all politions.

The Baxing Reviewed.

29

parter each other, almoft opposite to the thin, the left a little before the right; the egs not far removed, the left fomewhat beture, and the weight of the body on the foremost leg. Here the blow mult be weaker, becaufe there is a lofs of weight to The fecond is formed of the fifts placed puppel it, the body being moftly poiled on the foremoft leg. It is, however, better coloulated for Shifting, gives the practitioner an opportunity of putting in more blews, but has very little of the graceful ar manly in it.

Men "ppcarance, and is practified by very few. The body is protected by this more than any other guard; but the head is exposed. starly extended, the legs almost fquare, the This has little elegance or manhood in its The third or Johnson's attitude confifts of the fifts held before the head, the arms body much bent with the breaft forward.

30

P

Men pofieffed of uncommon firength in the loins fhould only accuftom themfelves to it, as it muft fatigue all others. The great advantage of this pofition lies in its being alike calculated for offence or defence, for the weight of the body being equally fuftained by both legs, it is by little exertion moved in any direction, fo as to guard againft or give vigor to a blow. To point out any attitude as the beli in all cafes, would be ridiculous, a phyfician might as well prefcribe one medicine for all conflitutions. Every one fhould adopt his mode of defence to his own powers, of which, after fome practice, he mult be the belt judge. This only I recommend: when a perfon after mature deliberation, and fome experience, has adopted a particular guard, he fhould not eafily relinquish it. His only plan fhould be its improvement, for if he continually feeks for new politions, he

Basing Reviewed.

31

he cannot act by rule, and mult often leave the decifion of a combat to fortune. The triumph of Humpbreys over Martin, at Newmarket, is a flrong proof of the propriety of this advice. Though the latter changed his manner of fighting as often as Prateus did flapes, yet he was as often wanguithed. A fyftematic conduct will prevail over irregularity, which chance only can render victorious. SECTION

32

SECTION VII.

The arms floould not be croffed, nor drawn back to firike-the motion of the arms-Clofing-doubts about Barring.

The Two arm will force them both down, and expole the fuperior part of the body. Secondly, a in a direct line, and muft therefore lofe adverfary's hands placed upon the upper blow given by one in this polition cannot be difadvantages refult to any perion who pracretain a very dangerous cuftom, which it is neceffary to notice, left it thould be adopted by others who might think it protifes this. In the firft inftance, one of his SEVERAL of the common people fiil arms are croffed to form the guard. per merely from feeing it often ufed. much of its force.

Though

Boxing Reviewed.

tion. An adverfary alfo gets notice of his of little mifchief, and leaves no opening, if the guard be immediately recovered; but this cannot be done when the whole weight and ftrength of the body are thrown in with the blow, a meafure which never ought to take place, unlefs it is abfolutely certain particularly in attacking an enemy, yet we mould, as much as possible, preferve our danger, and is of courfe prepared to receive the affault. A blow thould be ftruck without any previous alteration of attitude, for guard. Upon this principle, the arm fhould never be drawn back to flrike, for the guard even thould it fail, the attempt is productive is loft in proportion to the retrogade mo-Though we cannot be always guarded, that an opponent cannot defend it. A fkilful Boxer will never hazard a blow without the profpect of putting in a fecond to mote advantage, and I have feen fome D more caufe motion will caufe an antagonith to be prosch of a blow, from, being perceived, is its deginning ? If this be true, it will follow, that it is better to keep the arms fleady, beperhaps not fhrictly juft ; for is not the violent increafe of motion as cafily differned as trine, which is generally laid down, that a Baxer flogled abways keep his arms in motion to even flould it fail, the attend of the block is and from The reafon given in its defence, that the action of the fulls prevents the apa blow, that they might more effectually. ed with equal fuccels in pugilifus? I cannot implicitly fubfcribe to the docplant one themfelves. This,n however, to as they meak. If in Feacing they prove to decifive, why fhould they not be adoptwho went fo far as to expole themfelves to Faints, though extremely uteful and the effects of feience, are not fo much attended niay be fatal, and is feldom practifed. o drawn back to fluide, for the guard

342

Boxing Reviewed.

35

more carefully on his guard, fince he muft every moment expect an affault, whereas their firmnefs may betray him into fancied fourity. Another reafon has been adduced by the fupporters of this doctrine—the motion of the arms, fay they, will prevent the writts or hands from being feized ; but can any one at this period of pugiliftic refinement fuppofe, that a fcientific Boxer would fifter himfelf to be grafped in fuch a manner, fince previous to its taking place, his attrefary by the attempt muft throw himattrefary by the attempt muft throw him*Clojing* has been for fome time exploded, and this alone may ferve as an argument to thew, that Boxing is greatly improved, fince what was formerly of much utility, is now effected unneceffary or of little value. Yet pugilifts thould familiarife themfelves to Clofing, for though it rarely happens, they ought to be prepared for the worft. D 2 D 1

26

felf, my doubts as to the propricty of its only declare to men, better fkilled than mybelow ; befide, the arm or fift in the act of battle loft? It is by no means my firm opiflruck, it will not defend the part above or they not be difabled, and confequently a Barring may guard the part intended to be ftopping muft receive the blow, and may nion, that Barring fhould be laid alide, part aimed at. Why could not a blow be beat down, a mode of defence which BROUGHTON ufed with fuccefs? Though If I differ in opinion with fome of the ly flating my doubts, concerning the practice of Barring, which confifts in ftopping a blow by placing the arm or hand on the ence is founded on experience, the beft of inftructors, I do it with refpectful diffidence, not prefumptuous confidence. I therefore hope, they will excufe me for thus publicfirft Boxers of the prefent day, whole feipractice.

SECTION

Boxing Reviewed.

37

SECTION VIII.

some principal objections anfwered-Boxing ufeful to Travellers.

jections that have been urged against WERE I to leave unanfwered fome ob-Pugilifm, I might be juftly thought its champion from intereft; not from an honeft conviction of its propriety. For it would ions too cogent to be fet afide, and yet perfifted in the fupport of a fcience, which beappear, that I declined to take notice of reaing objectionable should not be defended.

mon people ferocious, and extinguishes in them It is afferted, that Boxing renders the comthe Iprivit of induftry.

dependent nature; they are manly, not fu-The minds of the loweft claffes of mankind in this nation have ever been of an in-TIOUS 3 rious; refolute, not favage; and I cannot admit, that ferocity is in any refpect applicable to them. Indeed at particular periods, zealous in the caufe of liberty or religion, they have been guilty of outrages, that will for ever blot the hiftory of their country, whole fanguine pages mult reflect a crimfon hue on the innocent cheeks of cular reproach? It is evident, that pugilifin a barbarous difpolition. To lay afide the and make ufe of those which nature has and what is this but pugilifm ? An exercife of this kind infpires a manly emulation, and can only fiimulate weak minds to difgraceful violence. It will not be thought paradoxical to fay, that it introduces urbanity should a general crime be made a partipromotes courage, but I deny that it infufes deftructive weapons of war invented by art, provided, can never be effeemed ferocious, their defcendants; but has not this happened to the people of moft countries, and amongft

Boxing Reviewed.

39

mongh the lower orders' of the communiv, for it makes them dread opponents in apprior life, fince the fcience is known to is univerfally taught, m So far therefore on producing brutality, it will on the mcivilized beings? Though the hero of a ation, and decked with the glorious laurels camples of the fame nature, which prove, hat while the fcience is fludied by the igher, politenefs will become more fre-I war, he did not think them fullied by The objection that Boxing extinguifles the wining with them laurels won by pugilifie fkill. I could quote many illuftrious ontrary fmooth that roughnefs of manners, hich has been a national reproach, and Ashlifh decorum. Has not a Granby id it with fuccefs, and reformed many quent among the lower ranks of fociety.

try, If Boxing he deemed prejudicial to induffinit of induftry, remains to be anfwered.

try, fo muft every trial of manhood, fo muft every fpecies of public amufement. The natives of every country, from the nature of the human mind, which demands intervals of relaxation from employment, will apply themfelves to fome exercife, martial or otherwife, to which their natural genius directs them, and of this we have innumerable inflances in the hiftory of the world, fince therefore fome time muft be fpent without labour, is it not better we fhould pafs it in the acquifition of fhrength and grace, the neceffary confequences of pugilifm, than in the indulgence of the fenfes, which muft enervate the body. The advantages Englifhmen pofiefs over foreigners, from their knowledge of Boxing, are no inconfiderable motives to recommend it. Oppofed as men to men, without weapons, and even with an inferiority of firength, we muft be fuperior in nerfonal

Boxing Reviewed.

41

perfonal contefts, caufed by accident or defign. Science will prevail over numbers, and lives, it is not improbable, may be faved by a proper difplay of fkill. Travellers fhould be well verfed in Boxing. It is a confolation to a man in a ftrange country, to be in a great meafure affured, that he is equal to repel any attack made by another in a natural way, that is without dangerous infruments of art, and fometimes to entertain ftrong hopes of proving victorious over numbers. Nay in cafes where the fword and piftol are ufed, or are intended to be ufed, a timely and well-directed blow will revenge a pugilift on his enemy, or defeat the villainous attempt. I am informed, that this argument in favour of the fcience is new, but, I truft, it will not therefore is new, but, I truft, it will not therefore

SECTION

Progress of Boxing-the encouragement given to it in Broughton's time-of its decline, re-SECTION IX. vival, and prefent flate. why the bisse we bourse to. The pugilifts of former times either ment feems to have been a proper mode of our days, has never been fufficiently attended of bearing blows, proved fuperior. Chance firiking, both as to the motion of the arms, and the parts aimed at. The next, a method of guarding. This, however, until puted and had recourfe to the powers of the body to decide their differences, the hardeft hitter, or the perfon moft capable alfo, as they fought without rule, frequent-DUGILISM is the lawful child of nature; but it is much indebted to art, whely claimed the victory. The first improvether we confider its progrefs in relation to fkill or firength. When men firft difney may have been in planting blows with received the blows of their adverfaries with courageous patience, or avoided them by mitting and retreating. However expert Boxing Reviewed.

43

vigor, fkill in the knowledge of defence ap-did not afford more proofs of fkill than were discovered in its infancy. Once therelicited to give, prove that it was held in the Verfally admired than it is now. But improvement did not keep pace with encouragement. The fcience in its maturity nigheft effimation, and perhaps more uniara in the hiftory of Boxing, and juftly claims the honor of rendering it of more public concern than it was ever before. The zeal which fome of the firft men in the nation manifelted in its fervice, and the great number of profeliors, who lived by the profits of the influctions they were fo-Broughton's time forms a memorable pears to have been entirely new to them.

MOLTOM

received fore

fore at a ftand it naturally fell into difgrace, any new acquifitions. The mifconduct of its profeffors alfo gave a mortal wound to becaufe men, fancying themfelves poffelfed of all that was attainable, thought it unnecould not requite them for their labor with neft citizen to oppofe men, the profefied ceffary any farther to cultivate a fludy, which pugilifm; intoxicated with popular applaufe, and confident of fuccefs in contells with the ignorant, they rafhly took every occafion to quarrel, and thus formed a diftinch and noxious clafs of beings in fociety. It therefore became the duty of every hoenemies of order, and they were accordingly fligmatized as unworthy of a fituation in the commonwealth. After this, Boxing for fome time loft its attractions; no longer heard of, it feemed to have never exifted. Yet the interval between its difgrace and revival was not long. Many

Boxing Reviewed.

45

The flate of Boxing at this period muft be confidered very much inferior to what it iyitem. The fuiting the attitude to the unheard of, and combatants of all ftrength and fizes generally had but one polition. guards, univerfally known, and therefore the more cafily evaded, formed their whole form and powers of the body was a thing muty were confpicuous ; the art of defence was in a great degree new ; fome awkward acquainted. Refolution, firength, and acpublic notice made their appearance. Their practice was indeed great, but theory was a word with which they were completely un-Many champions with flrong pretenfions to was in Broughton's time. It would be ungenerous to raife the reputation of the prefent, by depreffing that of former pugilifts. They certainly had talents, and refcued Boxing from the rude ftate, in which nature only had placed it. That they improved it, even their ene. that little more can remain to be done for the fcience. Among the moderns are men have gradually arifen by genius and intenfe ment on a civilized plan, has undeniable mies mult allow; but we have made full greater improvements, and to fuccefsfully poliefied of every requifite to form a complete pugilift, and to this excellence they application. No labor, no expense has been spared to attain perfection ; every mancevre, every fineffe, which the mind could fuggeft, or the body execute, has been attempted, and even calumny muft declare, that Boxing, conducted as it is at this mohas invention been in our days exerted. claims to public encouragement.

a shar or sportment of the point of the poin

Boxing Reviewed. 47.

n. Soch lo and giveled out ni fowolled con S.E.C.T.I.O.N. TX. shell broost

Three diffined periods to be confidered-Broughton, Slack, and Hunt deforibed.

The fame plan is rT is neceflary, for the fake of lorder, to confider the different periods remarks ue printed relations, I have had recourfe to bits of friendfhip with them, and were freuent witheftes of their contefts." Few are mentioned, as one mode of fighting commonly prevailed; but fuch as moft varied ble for the moft eminent pugilifts. 7The hift comprehends Broughton and the print of the firft flate; not content with authenmen, who lived in the moft intimate haday. No labour has been thought too great to obtain a faithful account of the pugilifts apal combatants of his time ; Corcoran and forme others rank in the fecond; and the third includes the Boxers of the prefent are carefully felected.

SECTION

followed

Whatever followed in the defcription of those in the fecond flate. With refpect to the moderns, of whom we can fpeak with certainty, imnotice; but no man fhould wantonly expole domeffic concerns, and condemn the in a moral light. Yet I fhall be always attachments I may have to fome of them, and I declare myfelf a foc to none, they are folicitations. Public action requires public peculiarities of private conduct. The merits of the moderns, as Boxers, fhould be only confidered, we fhould not view them cious may reft fecure from reproof.-Let entirely forgot; while I write, the friend is loft in the hiftorian, and truth thall only prevail. I have been often folicited to defcribe their occupations and private manners; but I have uniformly rejected fuch ready to praife the deferving, while the vitheir confcience be their monitor! partiality fhall be my guide.

Boxing Reviewed.

610

BROUGHTON

stands the firft of former pugilifts. His height did not exceed five feet eleven inches, nd his weight was fometimes above, fomeunes under fourteen ftone. He was remutkably well formed, but more calculated in firength than action; he had a good eye, and his arm was not, as has been ridiculoully reported, longer than the fymmetry of the body demanded. The hiftory of umoft every pugilift fufficiently proves, hat the mind, whatever opinion may be arefted in all contefts of this nature. It is the origin of motion, and the body is its inzarded to the contrary, is very much inlave. Broughton was fuperior to all others strous blows, enabled him to evercome force. mmental powers; his fagacity in difcoverag the weaknefs of an adverfary, and abiity in covering himfelf from the moft dannamy, to whom he was inferior in bodily 四 tice. Whatever flate the fcience was in at exceeded all other fighters in a knowledge His favorite blows were ftraight, aimed at, he caught his opponent's fift in his open hand. The crofs-buttock was nearly fecure. He ufed round blows, body, he beat it down, when his head was known long before his days; but he confiderably improved and brought it into nothat period, Broughton, it muft be admitted bent of the body this dangerous place is particularly when he wilhed to firike his antagonift under the left car. His attitude was fomewhat like that of Ryan, in his firft battle with Tohnfon; though the arms were not fo much extended, they were, however, more fo than those of his cotemporaries. When a blow was directed at his and one directly planted in the mark or pit Few battles are now decided in this manner, as from the guard, and the forward of the ftomach generally proved decifive, force.

BROUGHTON

20

Boxing Reviewed.

8

of the principles, for his great talents foon led him to difcover much of the theory, that was before unknown. Many were his fuperiors in ftrength and activity, none went beyond him in fcience and courage. He is defervedly placed at the head of the Boxers of his own time, and his amiablenefs of manners went hand in hand with his public effimation.

SLACK

Meafured five feet eight inches and a half, his weight between thirteen and fourteen flone, remarkably compact in his make, fuperior to moft men in fhrength, and of wonderful bottom. Suited to the prevailing mode of fighting in his time, few were able to contend with him, when he was refolved on victory. He had but little method in his fluking, and feldom fulle method in his fluking, and feldom fulle method in his fluking, and feldom fought a battle on a previoufly concerted plan. He exceeded all others in the force E_2 of part threw off a blow, and inflantly defcribing cefs in giving the return, bringing his fift to his breath, and projecting his clbow, he per, which he frequently ufed with fuche has optionally received a knock-down blow fooner than relinquith his original fituation. I have in another place taken notice of Slack's knowledge of the Chophe never could have been victorious; but his clay feemed to be formed of a different mould, and refifted the ftrongeft impreflions. and fo much did he defpife Shifting, that or near the pit of the flomach, and his left fore his mouth. In this polition we cannot tom only in common with other pugilifts, He refolutely difputed every inch of ground, of his blows, and a Slack was commonly frength. His attitude was upright, the legs very little feparated, his right hand on placed at a finall diftance from his body bediffern much art; and had he poffeffed botufed to fignify a blow given with great part of a circle, the center of which was the This mode was completely his own, but count to yield him the palm. Broughton's feience and repeated trials, in which he overcame the braveft and moft powerful vanquifhed Slack, muft give him the firft fituation, and it cannot be thought an act of injuffice to the celebrated Boxer we are now defcribing, to place him after, but elbow, he unexpectedly firuck his antagohas fince been adopted by numbers. His nour he acquired, and we fhould be as blind as Fortune proved herfelf in the decition of that combat, were we on that acchampions of his time, even those who had victory over Broughton was the greateft honift in the face with the back of his hand. next to fo great a man. " or or or of the form HUNT, THUN riods.

51

25

Boxing Reviewed.

As a finall man, pofieffed more reputation than any pugilifi of the three different pe-avoided appeared patiently to wait the approach of a riods. Not exceeding nine flone, and only himfelf to one attitude, for he found he tinually did. Some peculiarities which he ufed with fuccefs deferve our notice; he blow, which, if aimed at his body, he five feet four inches and a half in height, he in his time, he is the moft fingular; for he rable art, and even flood up to fome in a has frequently fought with men twice his ever a trial of fkill with ftrength. He had more difficulties to furmount than all others, for he was conftantly over-matched. Of the few inflances of Shifting that occurred conquered the ftrongeft men by his admimanly way. Though he might have been allowed to drop, when firength fo much beyond his own oppofed him, he feldom fell without a blow. He never confined could more effectually confuse his adverfary by changing his guard, which he conweight. When Hunt boxed, it was almost Baxing Reviewed.

54

53

avoided by ftepping afide, and then took an opportunity of winding his man, who was driven forward by his own force; if directed at his head, he ftooped, and letting his opponent's arms pafs over him, rufhed within his guard, and generally planted a fuccefsful blow in the body. He was fo famous for thefe practices, that his antagonifts ufually fought on the defenfive, a great advantage to Hum, who by this means beeme the affailant, and was not prefied by fuperior power.

SECTION

202

Boxing, and it has been thought proper to proceed on the fame plan with refpect to We now come to the fecond or middle flate of ety, fuch as moft materially differed from might have been given; but as accounts of this nature cannot admit of much varicond for bottom, and the third for advivity. The hillory of Taylor, Stevenfon, and many others, equally eminent in the fame clafs, T Have in the laft Section felected three Pugilifts, remarkable in very different ways ; the firft famous for Joience, the fc. Corcoran, Sellers, and Death difcribed. each other have been only noticed. SECTION XI. that.

CORCORAN

gious Stands first as a fair fighter. His blows were all ftraight, and planted with prodi-

Baxing Reviewed.

57

ging with powerful pugilifts, and meeting them in a manly manner, he feldom efthe event of his conteffs, he had not much to boaff, even when victorious; for engathe merit of flriking with certainty, for he always referved himfelf to take advantage of his adverfary's opens. Unfortunate in power of uting both hands, and though he has been blamed as a Move fighter, he had nght. He exceeded moft men in the saccidentally, without being fruck. His und was injudicious, the arms not being efficiently extended, and the body too upous force. He never thifted nor fell, uncaped being feverely beaten.

SELLERS

This he coran, yet did not hit with equal vigor. He Was ftronger and had more art than Corwas celebrated for rallying, or recovering himfelf, when clofely preffed.

effected

-For the truth of this I will not pledge very fuccefsful in firiking his adverfary as he himfelf dropped, and this has more than once terminated a battle in his favor. The following anecdote is related of Sellers, pugilift firft came into notice, fo affected him with forrow, that it caufed his death. effected by a ftratagem practifed long before, but not frequently ufed till he revived it. When he found it impoffible any longer to fland an affault, he fell on one of his knees, and thus evaded the difgrace of a knock-down blow. He was the more cenfurable for this practice, as he rarely encountered his fuperior in firength. He was by fome of the fighting men of his time. The neglect of his friends in not backing him againft Jobn/on, when this celebrated myfelf.

DEATH.

Boxing Reviewed.

65

DEATH.

Heis lice, of a fmall Boxer boldly facing an sany pugilift could defire, and not one of imprudently engaged his fuperiors in force, and the utmoft activity and fkill united cnemy much larger than himfelf, and his own weight durft meet him. But he the first instance at the period we now noit one time as much reputation in London won a great number of them. Death had mult weight was between eleven and twelve my deficiency in ftrength. He has fought more battles than any man in England, and task of him when in the full poliefion of his powers, for he is ftill living). His uttione; but his activity amply compenfated which I have prefixed to my account of He was well made, but light (I ut he is more generally known by that The real name of this Boxer is Oliver; could fearcely bring him through. hime)

though

60

he has often conquered. One of $\mathcal{J}_{obn}f_{out_1}$ first battles was with him; but Death unable to fultain fo unequal a conteft, was foon compelled to give in, for Johnfon even at that time went far beyond him in dif. though he has been often over-matched, playing the requifites of a pugilift.

SECTION XII.

19

Boxing Reviewed.

phreys, the elder and younger Towers, Hooper, Tyne, Watfon, Lee, Martin, Ward, George the Brewer, Jackfon, Dunn, Wood, Novelan, Mendoza, Hum-Doyle, Crabb, Yones, James, and Andertainfon, Perrins, Ryan, Big Ben, Tring, on, defcribed. - fair converts to his advantage ; not by any unbut also the conflitution and difpolition of engaged, without previoufly fludying not his adverfary. This knowledge he always his greateft excellence. He has never yet only the powers and manner of fighting, others; but his uncommon judgment is diftinguithed. His Arength, fcience and bottom give him a rank fuperior to all A MONG the moderns this celebrated pugilift is in every refpect the moft fair manœuvres or abufive conduct, but by a wildom that cannot be too much comfiderate, but the natural powers of Johnfrom the want of education, are equal to dom to irritate him. It is worth the care of a fagacious amateur, to trace one by one the tention or a fervile imitation of others, but panegyric on the mental faculties of a Boxer may appear ridiculous to the inconfor's mind, uncultivated as they muft be mended; if his opponent be cool, he him. more fo by taking every juftifiable meafure various battles Johnfon has won. From the firft to his memorable victory over Perrins, each furnishes us with new improvements, acquired not by fcholaftic atthose of most men, and were they polished and enlarged by fludy, might be directed with fuccels to the attainment of any difficulties. Unlike moft fighters, who felfelf is cooler ; if warm, he makes him fill by his own originality of invention. A

JOHNSON.

SECTION

62

Boxing Reviewed.

63

dom attend to rules for their guidance in a combat, until they find themfelves on the fage, he regularly forms, long before, a fythem of conduct moft adapted to himfelf, and contrary to his enemy; and to effect this, he calmly balances the refpective abilities and tempers of each—a ftrong proof of judgment, and which his own reflection first fuggefted to him. His height does not exceed five feet eight inches and a half, and his weight is about thirteen flone fix pounds; he has litthe flew in his cloaths, but flrips very large. He is round about the fhoulders and breaft, and his chief force is centered in the loins, which are remarkably flrong. His pofition has been already deferibed; it feems more calculated for defence than an affault; but when the body is flrong enough for its flupport, it is equally capable of both. The face appears to be peculiarly his mark, and his

7 fary, in which he frequently fucceeds. He his great object is the blinding his adver. and has confounded many by advancing his his antagonift, for this practice dazzles the Ways defifts a long time in a battle from acting offenfreely, with this delign, that he may be the fierceft attacks by the fafety of his guard, open hand immediately before the face of fight, and gives an opportunity of planting ciple in fighting, is never idly to expose himfelf to danger, nor hazard any thing which can be obtained with certainty. Acting almore intimately acquainted with his enemy's manner, and fatigue him. He avoids which protects the body in an uncommon degree, while the arms thrown before cover the head. His motion is very judicious, he never retreats, but dances round his man with a rapidity, which generally confules him. He gives the return quicker than any other pugilift, Mendoza excepted, a blow in the body. 'Johnfon's grand prin-

Boxing Reviewed.

65

duffon of feveral battles been in nearly as ways upon this principle he has at the congood condition as at the beginning; for chough affured of conqueft when first fetung to, his prudence leads him to protrutt an engagement, which he perhaps could not fpeedily terminate, unlefs he endangered himfelf; he therefore moftly acts on the defensive, and never firikes, but when confident of fuccefs. Till his conall with Ryan he never met a man who had even a chante of beating him. The in another place. One pugilift may be Inperior in Brength, another in feience, and a third may policis more bottom than Johnion, but in him are more fully combined the various requifites that form a complete engagement with Pervins I do not mention here, for that fhall be particularly noticed Boxer.

PERRINS,

E

66

PERRINS,

Only victorious in the part of the country where he lived, for he was never matched in London, the refidence of molf fight. ing men, little can be faid of this puglift, previous to his conteft with Johnfon. He certainly won many battles with eafe, and was poficified of fo much confidence, that he thought himfelf fuperior to every man in England. This was evident from his advertifement in the public papers, which chullenged any Boxer to meet him for five hundred guineas. Perrins is nearly gigantic in height and weight, with force fuited to his form, and admirable activity. An account of the battle between him and Yobnfon ought to be recorded, and will perhaps convey a more perfect knowledge of him than even a particular

Boxing Reviewed.

69

ticular defcription. In this engagement frength was oppoled to fkill, and all the admirers of manhood and fcience were warmly interched in the decifion. When fripped the difference in zerve between them was wonderful, and Johnfon's friends, who, but a fhort time before, affured themfelves of fuccefs, trembled for the event. We may fafely declare, there was never fo great a difparity in fize between two pugilifts matched againft each other, and yet the fmaller was a large man. In fetting to, great caution was fhewn on both fides, and four minutes elapfed before a blow was even attempted—Johnfon after baffling his adverfary's attack, gave the firfl blow, and Perrins fell. The three next rounds terminated alfo in Johnfon's favor, who confufed his antagonift by dancing tound him, and occafionally planting an unexpected blow. Perrins, irritated by this F2 conduct, were once with him turned at leaft ten to that he had evidently the worft of the battle in every future round, and the odds which followed by a fecond under the left eye, and Perrins was at length to perplexed by rapid movements and unexpected affaults, fore fought with more cunning, and, after rins, fuddenly darted forward, and flruck nofe entirely open. This was immediately fkilfully parrying a violent attack of Perhim a fevere blow in the face, that laid his and his ribs very much beaten. He therein the beginning, followed him with vaft in contempt, and at laft put in a fuccefsful blow, that turned the conteft in his favor. One of Johnfon's eyes was quite clofed. conduct, threw off the caution he fhewed refolution, appeared to hold his mancuvres one on Johnfon. About the tenth round Johnfon's firength feemed to decline, for he fell without a blow. Perrins

Boxing Reviewed.

60

fally it allowable to fall without a blow, as the articles were not fpecifically againft that conduct. Perrins in his turn loft much of while it hurt his opponent but little, who appeared to gain new vigor. Perrins in nefs, when his adverfary dropping at the lace, which was before very much cut, The battle afted an hour and fourteen minutes; and hity thouland pounds, it is thought, were It is neceffary to take notice of an opinion, which univer-Perrins therefore claimed the victory, but his Arength, and attempted to imitate his antagonift's mode of fighting, with which fought fow and chopped at Johnfon's face, but this effort weakened him ftill more, mining feveral blows, at laft fell from weakame time flruck him in the face, and till a dreadful blow in the centre of his on appealing to the umpires, they decided afterwards hit him whenever he tried, he was completely unacquainted. compelled Perrins to give in. won on the event of it.

20 greateft importance to him, who exceeds all others in the artful advantages he takes his mode of fighting, an acquisition of the fally prevails, that Perrins would be victoriaus Johnfon is now perfectly acquainted with were they to fight again ; I, on the contrary, believe he would be more cafily beaten. of his adverfary's failings.

RYAN

who He has been conquered by Jobnfon only. preferve a coolnefs of temper, might be matched againft any boxer in the kingdom. the first knock down blow, and could he with the principles of pugilifm, to which he has of late indefatigably applied himfelf. He is, though left handed, very graceful in his attitudes. Ryan is famous for giving hitter in England. He is very fcientific in Is very manly in his perfon, remarkable for courage, and is thought to be the hardeft his mode of fighting, and well acquainted

Baxing Reviewed.

14

ugilifts; it lafted near three minutes, and who beat him twice. In his laft battle cels all others in the memory of modern with Johnfon, a round took place, which, for game, fkill, and vigor in rallying, exfahnfon fell.

BIGBEN.

any particular direction. I am happy in in his guard. He is wonderful game, and felf, but follows him with great boldnefs, till the decifion of the round. His blows are uncommonly powerful, and without the opportunity of doing juffice to his private manners, for he has been unwarranturaight with both hands, but has little art This pugilifies diffinguithed by the name nor he is not remarkably large, but much about the fize of Johnfon. He ftrikes very never permits his adverfary to recover himof Big, without any particular claim to it, ably ably reprefented as an impudent, abudive fellow; but every one who knows him at will allow, that, though not qualified to thine in a drawing-room, he is a well-behaved, obliging man. He has never loft a battle.

TRING

Is effeemed the beft made man in England, and the talents of feveral artifts have been employed in taking his likenefs. He has not been frequently matched, but his battle with Big Ben will be long remembered, for they both exhibited a*battom*,that has been rarely feen in any conteft. They difplayed little art and foughtwith fuch fpirit, that*Tring*was quiteblinded, and his antagonift could fee butvery imperfectly. This however was agreat advantage, and*Tring*was obliged togive in.

WARD.

beat

Boxing Reviewed.

73

WARD.

never been vanquifhed. Ward is able to he has done with fuch fuccefs that he has be foon forgot: they fought upwards of he gave ftrong proofs of judgment in his manceuvres. Ward is the quickeft of all the boxers in hitting and changing ground; his blows are very firong, and cut exceedingly. He does not adhere to rules laid down by others, but invents for himfelf; and this This combatant has perhaps more claim than any other to public notice; he weighs powerful fighters with fuccefs, and could His conteft with John/on, to whom he is inferior in ftrength and weight, will not his activity in thifting was prodigious, and but twelve flone, yet has engaged the moft get back'd for fums to a great amount against any pugility, if permitted to drop. two hours and an half. The fkill fhewn by Ward in this battle has never been equalled ;

beat any one of his own fize, and if al. lowed to fall, would encounter the largeft man in the world.

GEORGE THE BREWER

ponent in a manly way, never fhifting, but has made great improvements fince his firft the Birmingham man, gave a fignal proof of his undaunted fpirit; they flood up to each other, and diffained to practice the manœuvres of Boxing. Here was no falling back to avoid a blow, or running round the flage to wind one another, all was man-N ly, but firikes very hard. He knows little of the theory of boxing, and meets his oprefolutely bearing the fevereft blows. He generally ftands in a low attitude, fomewhat like Johnfon, who firft gave him inftructions and brought him into notice. He battle, and the fighting-men hold him in high eftimation. His victory over Pickard, Is upwards of fix feet high, he fights flow-

Boxing Reviewed.

25

ly and difplayed uncommon courage. Two minutes often elapfed, before either of them fell, though, during that time, many hard blows were given on each fide. When eiblows were given on each fide. When eiblow. After the moft courageous conteft blow. After the moft courageous conteft nutes, George conquered.

JACKSON

Is nearly fix feet high and proportionably formed. He is celebrated for his activity, and furpaffes moft men in firength of arm. He imitates Johnfon in parrying the blow directed at the head, and avoids thofe aimed at the body by jumping backward. In his engagement with George the Brewer the odds were fix to four in his favour, till he unfortunately broke his leg, which put an end to the conteft. DUNN

56

DUNN

Is allowed to be very finely made, and his firength correfponds with his appearance. He is a very bold fighter, and never fhifts, Dum has on feveral occations diffinguithed himfelf for bottom. He fought with Ryan half an hour, after three of his ribs were broken by a blow from his adverfary.

WOOD

Is fomewhat larger than Ward, he deferves much encomium for his manly conduct, and is confidered a very fair fighter. He is greatly improved in his knowledge of the principles of Boxing, and ranks high as a Sparrer.

N O W L A N.

Much cannot be faid of this pugilift, as he has given very few fpecimens of his abilities. He behaved himfelf well in his conteft

Boxing Reviewed.

17

contest with Wood, and may attain great reputation. if he applies himfelf carefully to de feientific part of pugilifin.

MENDOZA

from his attitude, which is too much in the defenfive. Mendoza is weak in the loins, As a Boxer he defervedly ranks high, he man in England. He is deficient in the ftrength of his blows, and this proceeds lirikes oftener, and ftops better than any their intention is moltly directed to the face. more fhew than fervice. His plan confifts in teaching his fcholars to ftrike quick, and ment a great number of pupils. There is Is univerfally known as a teacher of the feince and a Boxer; but he is particularly elebrated for giving inftructions. He has initiated more in the elements of Sparring, man any other professor, and has at this momore neatnefs than frength in his manner, but but very finely formed in the breaft and arms. His courage is confiderable. He has good wind, and he takes vaft pains to prepare himfelf for action by proper train.

HUMPHREYS

Is inferior to none as a manly fighter, He is true game, and difplays more grace in his various attitudes than any pugilify of the Modern School; he is well verfed in the elements, and judicioufly puts them into practice. He cannot ufe both hands with equal power, he moftly ftops with the left, and ftrikes with the right hand. His blows are ftrong and carefully aimed at the molt dangerous parts. The difference between him and Mendoza may be flated thus —Mendoza puts in more blows, and ftops better; Humphreys hits more vjolently and is fuppofed to have better bottom.

Boxing Reviewed.

64

The Elder and Younger TOWERS.

Neither of the brothers can be called feientific, they are, however, hard hitters, and politifs much courage, the elder is, for a large man, wonderfully quick in firlking; the younger was one of the firlk, with whom Jobnfon fought, and was feverely beaten before he gave in.

HOOPER

Weighs little more than eleven flone, and is effeemed the beft Boxer of his own fize in the kingdom; he fights with prodigious fpirit, and rallies remarkably well; his blows are ftraight, and planted with aftonifhing force. Hooper is famous for driving, or following his man till a knock down blow takes place. The amateurs have lately attempted to match him, but in vain; for no man of his own weight has fufficient refolution to fland up to him.

WATSON

The 80

WATSON

Has not much fcience. An excellent battle was fought between him and Hooper, it lafted a long time, and he gave flriking proofs of bottom. Watfon is a pupil of Ward's; but does not fight after his manner. He is very active, and a good flifter,

T Y N E

Is policified of great firength and activity, fights cunningly and is a quick hitter. His attitude is pleafing, and feems to form a medium between that of Humbbreys and Mendoza. He is allowed to be the beft dropper in England, and often puts in a defperate blow as he falls. Tyne has fought many battles. That between him and Earl will be long remembered ; the courage difplayed on both fides has been feldom equalled, and the conteft unfortunately terminated in the death of Earl. His conduct on fo melancholy an occafion, merits the higheft

Boxing Reviewed.

81

higheft encomium; his fudden exprefitons of grief gave a flrong proof of a feeling heart, and his long voluntary confinement thewed that his forrow , was functe.

LEE,

Commonly known by the name of the White Chapel Butcher, fights with uncommon fpirit, but has little knowledge of the principles of the fcience.

MARTIN.

This pugilift was forme years back much dreemed; but when he loft his battles with Humpbreys and Mendoza, he loft his reputation. He is not a fair fighter, for he practices every manœuvre, and takes every mean advantage that is poffible. He is fo attached to fhifting, that he cannot for a minute keep in one polition. Martin frikes powerfully, and judicioufly directs his blows at particular parts.

DOYLE

C

....

83

DOYLE

• Strikes with fo little force, that he can fcarcely injure an adverfary; he may be called the Modern Buckbor/ć, for he patiently hears the fevereft blows. He is fo fond of fighting, that he will quarrel with his fuperiors in ftrength and fcience, though he knows he muft be defeated.

CRABB

Is entitled to much praife, both for fkill and bottom. Mendoza has given him infituctions; but he has fome bad cuftoms which he does not endeavour to correct. His blows are not fufficiently ftraight, and he too frequently practifes the chopper. This may be ufeful in an engagement with a perfon ignorant of the rules of Boxing, but is of no effect againft a fcientific man, who will eafily parry it, and immediately have an advantage in giving the return. Crabb is an honeft fighter, and nothing but fuperior fuce can conquer him.

Boxing Reviewed.

83

I J O N E S

Is a flow but flrong Boxer. He fights with fpirit, but has not much method.

JAMES THE WATERMAN

Is a very intrepid pugilift. He weighs but ten ftone, and has conquered men of fuperior ftrength. He imitates Yohnfon in his manner, and fparrs with great tafte.

ANDERSON

Is admired as a neat fighter; he ftrikes and ftops well. He is known to have won when he could with difficulty fee his man, and yet gave in after four rounds with Wat- To avoid an uninterefting repetition of language, many pugilifts of the middle flate, G 2 though though poffeffed of merit, have not been noticed; fuch were Darts and Ripfhaw. Ripfhaw has fought many hard battles; he planted his blows with great force, and has now the reputation of being a good fc. cond.

84

A State of the sta

10

Baxing Reviewed.

SECTION XIII.

Parallel between Broughton and Johnfon.

double the fum has been lately collected at at public exhibitions of this nature. The ton and Slack fought, did not amount to three hundred pounds, whereas more than receipts of the Amphitheatre, when Broughunbam Court, and the New Amphitheatre in sility. More money is however now taken in the refpective times of thefe combatants appears nearly equal. Regular places were formerly raifed for the difplay Oxford Road, were confiructed for the purpofe. The latter was built by unfolicited inhibitiption from fome of the principal no-THE encouragement given to pugilifm of the fcience. The Great Bootb in Totdifferent engagements.

Broughton

SECTION

86

8

much Broughton was the first Boxer of his time, Johnfon maintains the fame rank in vity. Broughton improved the fcience as he found it eftablifhed, Johnfon formed a ton ever met, as we learn from the accounts of his various battles. Johnfon poffeifes fo The antient exceeded the modern in weight and inches; but the latter has at his great predeceflor, for he encountered leaft equal ftrength and certainly more ach. fyftein for himfelf, in oppolition to wellknown rules. The neceffity of being acquainted with clofing forms a great objection against the former pugilist; for as they permitted their antagonifts to get within their guard, they could not have ufed their fifts with dexterity equal to what we do, who fo eafily baffle every attempt grace of a defeat, Johnfon has never been vanquiched, and yet he has rifleed more than Perrins, a more powerful man than Broughof the kind. Broughton fuffered the difours.

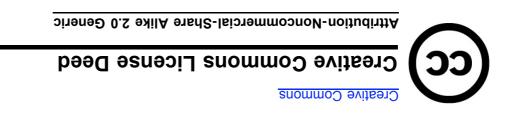

Boxing Reviewed.

20

private lives may be affimilated in mildnefs of one, and is equally that of the other. Their than hazard the receiving a blow? Public integrity has been the characteriftic of the anly prove him more manly, not fo judicious as Johnfon; for is it not better to avoid nge, till he gains a complete victory. The only point in which I can allow Broughton the fuperiority, is the refolution with which he attempted to ftop blows; but this will cannot be too much commended; but in this he was inferior to Johnfon, who, like a wife general, improves every little advan-Broughton's mode of following his blows poraries in fo excellent a qualification. admirable coolnefs of temper in the conduct groughton in the height of his reputation has been challenged by feveral. The hero of the old fchool is faid to have manifelted of his battles, and in this the modern reambles him, for he furpafies all his cotemmuch fume that none dare attack him;

Printed in the Year MDCCDXXXIX. 1. ALFRED'S APPEAL. MARY ANNE FITZHERBERT, COURT OF KING's BENCH, SUBJECT OF THE MARRIAGE S COUNT BELLOIS. 2 NTRIGUE E L 0. N. D 0 N: CONTAINING A D D R AND HER THE ON THE HL 14 0 T O A S -IH lebrated as a profeffor. An equality of courage will readily be allowed to both; but Johnfon is fo much fuperior in every other requifite, that the fcience of pugilifm, practifed as it is by him, feems a new invention of manners and honefty of heart. Broughton with little fcience was certainly more ceŝ Boxing Reviewed. fince the days of Broughton. Z fr.

88

You are free:

to Share — to copy, distribute and transmit the work to Remix - to adapt the work

Under the following conditions:

Attribution — You must attribute the work in the manner specified by the author or licensor (but not in any way that suggests that they endorse you or your use of the work).

Share Alike — If you alter, transform, or build upon this work, you may distribute the resulting work only under the same or similar license to this one.

With the understanding that:

Waiver — Any of the above conditions can be waived if you get permission from the copyright holder.

Other Rights — In no way are any of the following rights affected by the license:

- Your fair dealing or fair use rights;
- The author's moral rights;
- Rights other persons may have either in the work itself or in how
- Notice For any to do this is with a link to this web page.

A new version of this license is available. You should use it for new works, and you may want to relicense existing works under it. No works are automatically put under the new license, however.

This is a human-readable summary of the Legal Code (the full license).